Cultivate Abundance is a faith-based organization addressing food insecurity and other livelihood challenges in low-income, migrant farmworker communities of Southwest Florida and beyond.

OUR MISSION
Mobilizing appropriate resources to eliminate hunger and enable small-scale food production in vulnerable households and communities.

The Challenge Faced by Migrant Farmworkers
Most farmworkers in Southwest Florida are from Guatemala, southern Mexico and Haiti. Impacted by poverty, crime and other local hardships, they have left homes and families for work in the US. With low wages from harvesting crops, migrant farmworkers in the US still face considerable challenges including poverty, discrimination, legal residence issues and food insecurity.

Despite Florida supplying 2/3rds of America’s wintertime tomatoes, large portions of Immokalee and its environs are classified as food deserts; areas lacking access to affordable fruits, vegetables, whole grains and other foods that make up a full and healthy diet. In fact, those who harvest our food often do not have nutritious diets.

To learn more and partner with Cultivate Abundance, visit CULTIVATEABUNDANCE.ORG
Our Response

IMPROVING FOOD ACCESS
- By promoting home and community gardening in Immokalee’s migrant worker neighborhoods.
- By equipping and mobilizing an alliance of Southwest Florida gardeners to grow and share quality surplus, homegrown produce with farmworker neighbors through Immokalee-based organizations, thereby feeding people and preventing the waste of food.

ENGAGING IN COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS
- By offering technical and other assistance to local agencies working to restore dignity and justice for migrant farmworkers.
- By expanding the impact of community gardens through consulting and advisory services provided to congregations and other organizations supporting Cultivate Abundance in Immokalee.

ADDRESSING LIVELIHOOD CHALLENGES IN MIGRANT FARMWORKER SOURCE COUNTRIES
- By offering technical advisory services to development partners serving communities of farmers and gardeners in Guatemala, Mexico, Haiti and elsewhere so that small-scale food producers might live abundantly and with dignity.

There are no quick fixes in improving access to nutritious food for migrant farmworker households, but with your help, those who pick our food can enjoy a harvest of abundance.

VOLUNTEER
- to help establish and maintain strategic community gardens.

SHARE
- abundant fruit and other crops from gardens in Lee and Collier counties (including church and community gardens) for distribution in Immokalee.

GIVE GENEROUSLY
- Cultivate Abundance depends on generous financial support to help bring food security for those that harvest our food.